WE ARE INVITED INTO HIGH SOCIETY

We can't help confessing that we feel swelled up today. The morning mail brought us a communication from a company of very distinguished men and we were invited to participate with these notables in a great philanthropic movement.

Addressed to "Ye Ed" personally from 511 Fifth avenue, New York, the first paragraph of the letter is as follows:

"The Republican National committee is making an earnest and strenuous effort to secure the active, moral and financial support of a great number of men in every section of the United States and to enroll their names at the Republican National headquarters as sustaining members of the party. A contribution of $10 entitles one to such enrollment and certificate of membership will be sent to each contributor."

To the letter are appended the names of no less high and mighty men than Cornelius N. Bliss, Joseph H. Choate, Robert Bacon, George V. L. Meyer and several others of equal renown. Now do you marvel because we are filled with pride when we are given an opportunity to break into such society?

Just think what an honor it is to be a "sustaining" member of the Republican party. And we can enjoy that distinction for the small sum of $10, securing a certificate with which doubtless goes the password, grip and all the secret work of the order, bringing us into good fellowship in the glorious brotherhood.

Naturally, the temptation thus held out to us is a strong one but having been taught to eschew vaulting earthly ambitions we have decided to pass it up, preferring to turn it over to some one more worthy of it. We are going to offer it first to George W. Harefoot and then to Bob Richards. If neither of these take it on, we shall try J. S. Tatman or Bro. Early, the "popcorn man."

Of course we realize that the G. O. P. needs some strong "sustaining" arms to lean on, but from the financial point of view we understand that there are others more able and perfectly willing to perform in the role of sustainer. "Big business" and the various special interests that want the good old days of Republican rule restored, we are informed, are coughing up very generously to help elect Mr. Hughes and hence we shall drop our spare change into the Woodrow Wilson basket.

Do You Suffer From HEADACHE? NEURALGIA?

"I have been subject to severe headaches for about seven years. My head would ache so badly at times that I could scarcely stand it. Doctors and headache medicines did no good. Hunt's Lightning Oil gave me almost instant relief. Have not suffered from those dreadful headaches since I found out about your wonderful liniment." writes Mrs. W. T. Dickson, Sherman, Texas.

MAKES PAIN VANISH

The affected part instantly warms and glows under its powerful penetrating effect. You can fairly see and feel it do the work. Simply rub it on and the pain seems to fade away. Inexpensive—5c and 50c a bottle.

WHY FORD SUPPORTS WILSON

In his interview declaring that he will support President Wilson for re-election Henry Ford says:

"Because of the many good things President Wilson has done, I think he should be commended and heartily appreciated."

"Every member you meet will tell you the good things in the administration of President Wilson. I feel just as these people do about what he has done and realize keenly that his great neutrality policy during the European war has had the result of keeping this country at peace."

"The efforts of his opponents to make political capital of President Wilson's determination not to measure swords with poor, deluded Mexico have already ended in distinct failure."

Mr. Ford's statement is brief, simple and to the point. He appreciates and will support President Wilson for re-election because of the good things he has done. Mr. Ford doesn't take the trouble to enumerate these good things. He assumes that practically every American knows them.

Undoubtedly Mr. Ford had in mind in addition to Mr. Wilson's great neutrality policy which has kept this country out of the European war and at peace, and his Mexican policy which kept us from becoming embroiled in a war with poor Mexico, the great constructive program which the Wilson administration has enacted into laws. He had in mind the banking and currency acts, which enlarged credits, stabilized business and prevented panic; he had in mind the trade commission, which helped to guide business in right channels and to avoid disastrous suits against corporations; he had in mind the shipping laws to revive the American merchant marine; he had in mind the child labor law, and the averting of the railroad strike.

Mr. Ford is one of the greatest manufacturers in the world. He is the employer of nearly fifty thousand persons. He is in position to appreciate the service which the president and congress performed when they averted the railroad strike by legislation. He knows it kept his factories, which otherwise would have shut down, going, and kept his thousands of workmen, who otherwise would have been idle, at work.

Mr. Ford is not afraid of the eight-hour day with ten hours pay which congress provided temporarily until the working of the eight-hour day can be investigated. He approves reasonable working hours and good wages. He has proved conclusively that a reasonable working day with good wages pays the manufacturer. He has proved that it makes for efficiency, for greater production and increased profits. Since he fixed a minimum wage of $5 for his employees he has vastly increased the output of his shops and has increased profits. He makes more money than he ever made. He has reduced the price of Ford automobiles. He has for the first time distributed a midyear bonus of over $800,000 among the heads of departments in his shops.

Mr. Ford has sense enough to realize that the Adamson law was an emergency expedient to avert a calamitous strike and that it is only the beginning of constructive legislation to prevent such menacing conditions and calamitous strikes in the future. He has confidence that President Wilson, who showed such resource and courage in preventing the strike, will do more—will use the power of the government to protect the public from disastrous industrial wars and to establish an equitable mode of settling wage controversies.

Mr. Ford's support of the president is more significant than the average change of political party, not only because he is a great manufacturer, but because he carried two states, Michigan and Nebraska, in the Republican presidential primaries.

Mr. Ford's support of the president for the reason he gives is sound voting policy. If a president who does good things is defeated, what encouragement is there for good work in the presidential office?—St. Louis Post Dispatch.

EXPRESS PACKETTES.

Again the same sweet song I sing,
I hope you'll help to make it ring.
It's such a jolly, tuneful glee—
"Pay up next week," is the decree.

Pay-Up Week October 2-7. Don't forget it.

As a matter of fact, it is mighty hard to talk Sammy out of it.

Also, it is seldom that a man contributes anything by his presence to the decorative effects at a party.

Actually, M. S. Cralle has the nerve to claim that he has more hair than "Riny." The latter is threatening a slander suit.

A fund has been started to buy R. K. Wootton a hat to take the place of the straw lid he is wearing. Mr. Wootton himself has agreed to contribute 50 cents.

Bro. Bishop has concluded that the best part of his golden wedding party was furnished by a pair of bold and pretty girls who rose to the requirements of the occasion.

Personally, the Packettetter has always been in favor of postponing putting up the stove as long as possible but of course mere man seldom has his way about such things.

A STOLEN SMILE 'ER TWO.

A Useless Visitor.

"Say, young feller," said Broncho Bob, "have you got a gun on you?"
"No, sir," replied the man with the brand-new cowboy uniform. "I was told that it was better to be unarmed, so as to avoid any impression that I was seeking a quarrel."

"Well, that's a big disappointment. I needed a brand-new gun an' thought you'd be bringin' along at least a pair of 'em. Don't you let anything like this occur again."—Washington Star.

The Law's Fault.

Geordie had a small dog, and was summoned for keeping a dog without a license. He pleaded it was only a pup. "How old do you say he is?" asked the magistrate's clerk. "An' divvent know exactly," replied Geordie. "But he's only a pup." Expert evidence, however, proved it to be a dog and Geordie was duly fined. As Geordie was leaving the court he turned to his wife and remarked: "Hang me if I can understand it. An' said the seym thing last year, and the year before, and they let me off. Now they fine me. An' suppose somebody's been messin' about with the law!"—Newcastle (Eng.) Chronicle.

"Only 'Gets-It' for Me After This!"

It "Gets" Every Corn Every Time. Painless. Nothing More Simple. "I'll tell you what, I've quit using toe-eating knives for corns. I've quit making a package out of my toes with bandages and contraptions—quit digging with knives and saws. Give me 'GETS-IT' every time!"

When You See These Pretty Girls in Your Druggist's Window It's a Good Time To Buy Your Corns.

That's what they all say the very first time they use "GETS-IT." It's because "GETS-IT" is so simple and easy to use—put it on in a few seconds—because there is no work or corn-fooling to do, no pain that shoots up to your heart. It gets your corns off your mind. All the time it's working—and then, that little old corn peels right off, leaving the clean, corn-free skin underneath—and your corn is gone! No wonder millions prefer "GETS-IT." No wonder millions of druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.
